Dear Triathlon Participants,

Saturday was a wonderful day for the Schindler family and a wonderful day for our annual triathlon. Congratulations to all the participants and thanks to you all for dealing in good cheer with the weather. We got most of you through before any heavy rain and for those who finished in the rain, make sure you tell everyone how tough the conditions were. Well done!!!!

The Schindler family would like to thank all of you for participating. We hope the triathlon met all your expectations, but if there are any concerns, please do not hesitate to bring them to our attention. Through your efforts, we raised over $5,000 for the scholarship, again exceeding last year's total. In March we announced the 2011's recipients. It is because of you that we can offer so many scholarships.

We would also like to thank our sponsors and hope you will consider patronizing them in the future. Our sponsors are listed on the back of your shirts. In addition to these sponsors were also received food donations from BJs and Shoppers Food.

Please know how much it means to us to hear the individual stories about why you decided to participate in Emily's triathlon. We do not know what her life would have been like, but to know she continues to encourage other's to become active and get into the pool or on the trail is a gift for us to hear. Emily would have loved that. Thank you for understanding what Emily's triathlon represents. You help us continue her story.

We were truly blessed to have Emily in our lives for 18 years. We are also truly blessed to have so many individuals helping us keep her memory alive. We would be remiss if we didn't mention one person in particular. David Ensor is the true force behind the triathlon. He came up with the idea for the triathlon and spends countless hours making it happen. We cannot begin to repay him for his efforts. I'm sure you will join us in thanking this remarkable young man for his efforts.

Again, thank you all for making this a remarkable day. We hope to see you smiling as you again cross the finish line next year.

Stay Healthy,

The Schindler Family
